

NKU LEADERSHIP INSTITUTE (NKULI)

The Office of the Provost is now accepting applications for Northern Kentucky University Leadership Institute (NKULI)

This is a leadership development opportunity designed to help prepare NKU's future academic leaders. Participation in the Institute is open to faculty at all levels, including lecturers, who aspire to be administrators; as well as current chairs and associate or assistant deans who would like to learn to better lead in their current roles or would like to assume a greater level of leadership responsibility at some point in their careers.

The 2025-2026 NKULI will convene in September of 2025 and consist of nine monthly sessions, concluding in May 2026. Participation will be limited to 10-15 members and the monthly meetings will be scheduled for Fridays from 9:00 am - 2:00 p.m., with snacks and lunch included. Participants will receive a leadership certificate at the end of the program.

Selected participants are expected to attend and actively engage in ALL scheduled meetings. Participants will meet once a month to discuss various aspects of leadership in higher education. Presentations and discussions will be facilitated by current members of NKU's cabinet and leadership team and invited speakers. Participants in NKULI will acquire broad perspectives and knowledge of higher education, leadership and careers paths. Discussions will address a range of issues such as the administrative structure of higher education, leadership styles, emotional intelligence, critical issues facing administrators, financing and funding, and inclusion.

APPLICATION

Apply to the Northern Kentucky University Leadership Institute (Application period is open).

To be considered for participation in the NKULI, you will need to submit:
